Connecting HealthTech Talent

HEALTHTECH HUB: LONDON

Known for its huge concentration of international talent, vibrant community, and high concentration of capital, there's no shortage of entrepreneurs, government initiatives, accelerators and events in London, making it one of the fastest-growing HealthTech ecosystems in the world.

According to the Association of British HealthTech industries, the UK HealthTech sector is now the largest employer in the broader Life Sciences industry, employing 127,400 people in 3,860 companies; all of which have a combined turnover of £24 billion.

Hundreds of startups across London are solving everyday problems in healthcare through innovative solutions, with HealthTech 'power brands', such as Babylon, Zesty and Huma leading the industry. Being the third largest tech hub in the world, London is an exceptional place for budding HealthTech startups and scale ups to develop and grow.

WHERE TO LIVE

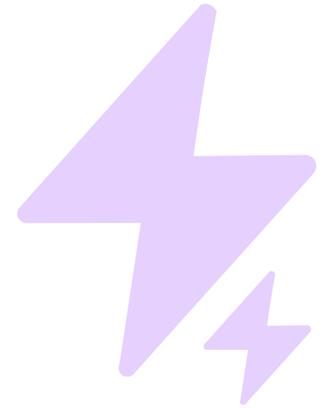

Many of London's Largest HealthTechs are based in Central London, such as Zesty, Babylon and DoctorLink. With Central London being easily accessible from all boroughs, your choice of where to live in the big smoke really comes down to your own preferences.

Every London postcode has its own personality. Young professionals who are looking for a buzzing nightlife will be fascinated by East London; while those looking for a quieter neighbourhood may opt for West London. North London offers a great mixture of the two, while South London is becoming more and more popular with young professionals through its local amenities.

If you're looking for cheaper living, Finsbury Park and Kentish town are two of the most affordable areas to live centrally; with both boasting an abundance of pubs, shops and restaurants.

For those after somewhere to escape from the buzz of the city, Hampstead Heath and Hampstead Woods offer 800 acres of greenery to explore. Slightly further afield, Kingston has 183 parks, gardens, nature reserves and recreation grounds, making it the only London borough with one park per thousand residents.

MUST-SEE CITY SPOTS

BOROUGH MARKET

This historical market in central London boasts quality food and drink and incredible views of the Shard. With artisan prepared food and fresh organic produce ranging from all over Britain and the rest of the world, you'll likely find yourself heading back for breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

WEST END

The hub of London's entertainment district, the West End's theatre scene goes unmatched. With 40+ shows ranging from traditional plays to modern musicals, there really is something for everyone.

NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM

A powerhouse of scientific enquiry, this world-famous museum does not disappoint. As well as admiring its extensive number of exhibitions, be sure to look up and take in the stunning surrounding architecture.

MOVING TO LONDON TIPS

- ✓ Whether you're renting or buying, living in London is expensive. To save on housing costs, consider sharing an apartment or house.
- ✓ The most popular mode of transport and the quickest way to get around town is via the tube. Besides the tube, buses are the cheapest mode of travel - but be aware of their tendency to be bogged down by the infamous city traffic.
- ✓ Looking for a public transport alternative? Take advantage of the multitude of public bike initiatives available across the city.

MOVING TO LONDON TIPS

- ✓ When you first move to London, mobile apps will save your life. Use Citymapper to plan your journeys, have your favourite food delivered to your doorstep by Deliveroo, and download the Met Office for the latest weather forecasts.
- ✓ Whilst you're settling in, make a conscious effort to visit all of the free museums and galleries London has to offer, such as The National Gallery and the Tate Modern.
- ✓ For shorter journeys, as well as to assimilate yourself with London's culture – walk! Your efforts will be rewarded by the abundance of architecture, smells and the exciting bustle of London's cobbled streets.
